The weather was fine yesterday, but no boat from up-stream arriving, there was only a limited amount of 1 ro u e offering. Corn. meal showed great firm sess; our Memphis mill, we are glad to say, is doing a good business, and supplies the home market at moderate and steady prices. Potatoes were stronger, with some advance. The price of grain will, to some extent, depend upon what Europe wants from us; but the opening of the Black sea commerce is increasing Europe's power to supply itself by overland transportation; also, now there is a suspension of hostilities, heavy amounts of Russian and Roumanian grain are reaching the markets. Our Cincinnati dispatches night before last chronicled the departure of the Andy Baum from that port with one hundred and twenty-five excursionists, and having engagements at all intermediate ports, it is safe to say she will have double that number by the time she arrives at Memphis. St. Louis papers are full of announcements of steamers leaving that port for the Memphis Mardi-Gras, each steamer's cabin roll is al-ready nearly filled, so that the arrivals by river will form no small part of the great influx of visitors on that occasion. If the presfeel assured that our marines will do something to aid in making that occasion the grandest ever witnessed.
